

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for modifying a media database with broadcast media. A receiver receives a broadcast signal from a broadcast source. A selector selects a segment of the broadcast signal. An identifier determines if the selected broadcast segment contains valid signal content in relation to a plurality of signals, which are stored in a signal database. A modifier modifies the signal database with a portion of the selected segment if the segment is identified as having valid signal content.

1001774-103001